Mr. Suraj Kumar jana alumni of BMSIT has converted Coke, Red Bull and beer cans into mini - satellites to create an open-source database on several city parameters. Including temperature and pollution levels. Suraj Kumar Jana, founder of Opencube Labs, is the mastermind behind the project monikered as CanSat Development Programme. CanSat is a sounding rocket balloon payload built of open hardware (Arduino, RaspberryPi) with the entire satellite components assembled inside a 350ml soda can.

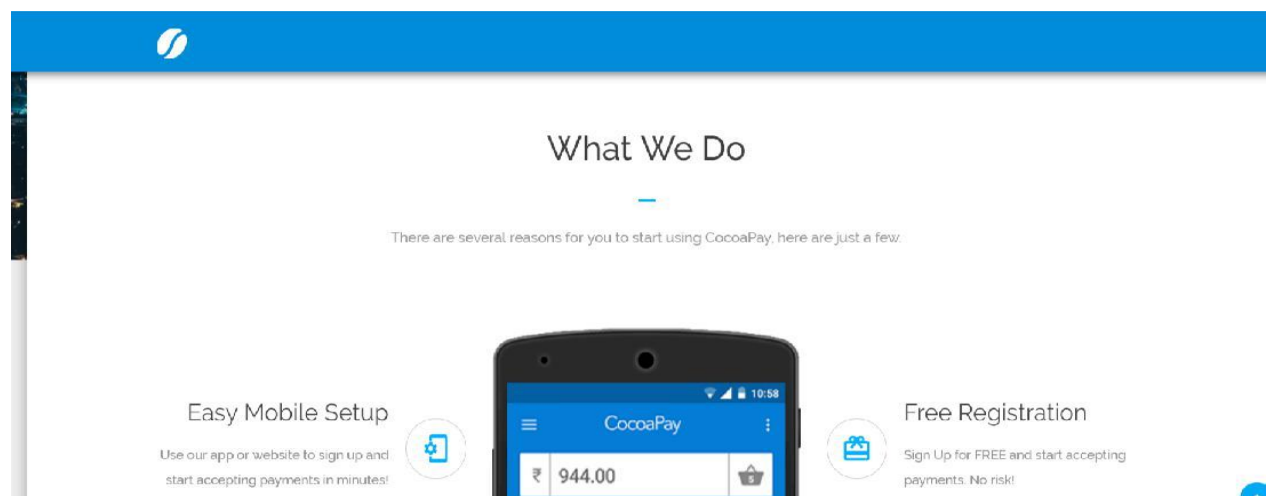

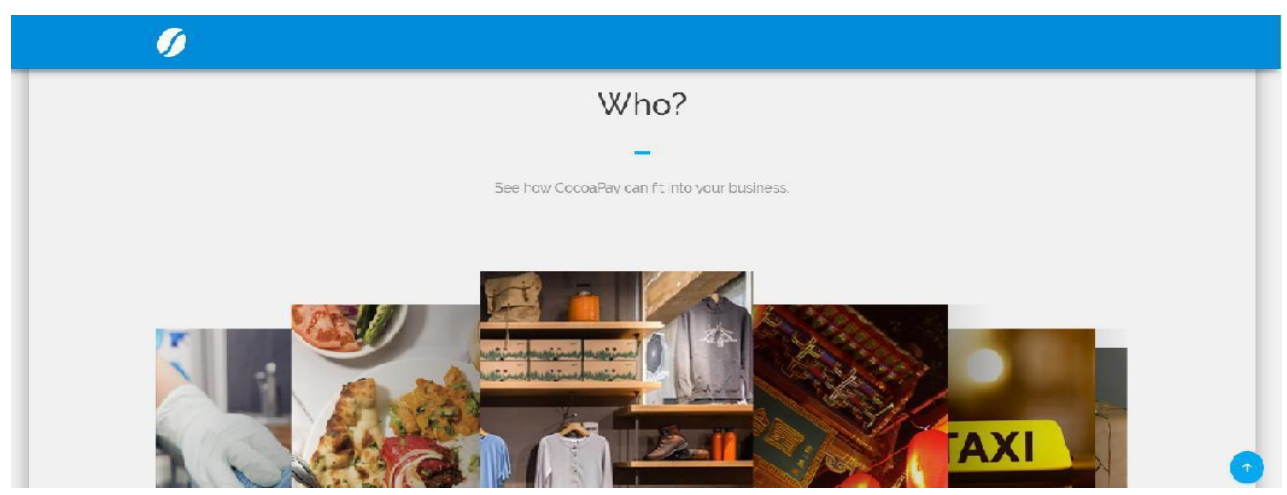

The mini-satellite, which is launched from the Air Force base at yelahanka, does a controlled descent with the help of a parachute and transmits captured data to the ground station. "The data collected by these mini-satellites include temperature and pollution levels, quality of air and water, ultra-violet penetration and traffic congestion levels in the city. These data can help in research purposes and our civic bodies can even use them to implement better policies,"

Overview

Opencube Labs(OCL) promotes Space Research and Technology. In the wake of India leaving its footprint in the space race, the OCL strives to reach the young minds of our country by providing forums for discussion and interaction with the pioneers, and the leading minds of our country. OCL achieves this by providing hands on experience with the help of state-of-the-art training kits to better facilitate learning. OCL will be releasing their range of innovative Educational Space Apps on all the major platforms so as to reach a wider audience.

Coceptual.com

An amazing idea for an intelligent brand name

An extraordinarily powerful and evocative brand name, cleverly derived from the word "conceptual". The name communicates all of the associations with "concept" - ideas, innovation, design theories, creative thinking - in a highly distinctive way. A fantastic branding opportunity. Those seeking solid, more-than-unique names - to also emphasize the "Co" of the name - and suggest collaboration and collaboration. This is a strong, confident business name and an amazing branding opportunity.

WHY YOU AND NOT THAT MASS COMM GUY?

GOOD QUESTION BUT LET ME ELUCIDATE:

- I treat your content as exotic dishes that need the time and effort to come out beautifully on the platform of your choice. Mamma Mia!
- Will you find a guy who'd burn the midnight oil to make timely delivery even if it's a Sunday?
- An IELTS score of 7.5 might reinstate your faith in my English vernacular.
- I did win an international gaming contest and a National Science Olympiad too. That must amount to something, right?
- I have watched more than 2000 movies and 400+ TV shows in English, Hindi and Japanese. This gives me an edge in my craft over other more traditional linguists.
